Verbal Description

Plate fragment from complex censer w/ handle & large segment of base remaining. Handle = 5.4cm. Base = 9.3cm diam. 2 partial vents visible, one w/ 2 slanted sides, one w/ one slanted side visible. Otherwise no decoration visible. Extensive, uneven striations visible on top of plate, though it is still relatively rough. Some slight striations visible around ext of base. Base int, including underside of plate inside base shows thick striations, probably where excess clay was used to attach plate & base & then was somewhat smoothed. No burning visible on underside of plate or on base, except for one tiny patch of light burning on the broken edge of the plate. On plate upperside, burning is extensive & heavy, especially around the broken edge. Burning is very uneven, though, w/ patches of virtually unaltered space, especially on one side of handle. Handle itself shows slight greying.
